Protestors show up, affordable housing gets closer

By Christina McDonald

Rohnert Park City Council meetings are generally calm and short, but the latest meeting went on for over two hours, showcasing the city's efforts to combat the affordable housing crisis. The meeting was attended by a large group of residents, including many who are directly affected by the lack of affordable housing in the city.

The council discussed several potential solutions to the housing crisis, including the creation of a new affordable housing fund and the implementation of a new fee for the development of new residential properties. Residents expressed frustration with the city's slow progress in addressing the housing crisis and called for swift action.

First Rohnert Park student to visit sister city in Japan brings back gift

By Katherine Friedman

The first Rohnert Park student to visit Hashimoto, Japan, returned last week with a gift from her Japanese counterpart. The student, who is a junior at Cotati High School, spent two weeks in Hashimoto as part of a student exchange program.

During her stay, the student visited various cultural institutions in Hashimoto, including a Buddhist temple at Kyoto. She also exchanged ideas and experiences with her Japanese counterpart, who is a high school student in Cotati.

The student said that the trip was a wonderful opportunity to learn about Japanese culture and to build a lasting friendship with her Japanese counterpart. She plans to continue to keep in touch with her exchange partner and to share her experiences with others.

Sutton takes oath of Eagle Scout

By Grant Wetmore

Sixth grade graduate attended a special ceremony held Friday afternoon at Sonoma Raceway to be sworn in as an Eagle Scout. Kyle Sutton earned a total of 34 merit badges; although only 21 merit badges are required to achieve Eagle Scout status, Sutton chose to participate in additional activities to fulfill his obligations.

Sutton is a member of Troop 2 and has been involved in a variety of activities, including hiking, camping, and community service. His Eagle Scout project involved building a new playground at the local elementary school.

PG&E contractors to inspect gas meters in Sonoma County

By Christian McDonald

As part of PG&E's ongoing efforts to provide reliable and safe gas service to customers, contractors will perform routine gas meter inspections in Sonoma County throughout June and into July. Crews will inspect approximately 4,000 residential gas meters in Cotati, Pinole, Petaluma, and Rohnert Park.

The contractors will be mobile phone or tablet in order to take pictures. They will be wearing PG&E head gear and PG&E safety vest while they do their job. The contractors will not be in PG&E vehicles but will have PG&E placard in the windshield.

These inspections will be conducted in July, in defiance ofreement, but will still happen. They will be on an as-needed basis and you will still need a mask to protect you from the dust.

These inspections will be conducted in July. There will be a call to action to stop the inspections, but that would be inadvisable. The inspections will be conducted in a manner in which residents would have access to ways in which they can mitigate the impact of the inspections.

That Paula was the perfect match

Paula was the perfect match. The ladies being so exuberant, they have a five marker out of ten to show they are related. Paula and Debby have a six marker, which should almost make them sisters or cousins. Reinhold and another female long have a five marker out of ten to show they are related. If there were people telling the doctors what the best way to start a dialysis was, they could be kidney failure over time, filtering well and may lead to ease means your kidneys are not producing as much urine, composed of wastes and other by-products. Every day, your kidneys filter about 1 to 2 quarts of your body fluids. You may be hooked up to a large white bag with your body fluids, blood pressure and too many blood tests will help them know what is the best way to start a dialysis. Both ladies have expressed their desire to spread the word on kidney dialysis and it is their way of giving back to society. Paula wants to go on special engagements and start blogging to spread the word so other people know to jump on the bandwagon. Debby had is that during the period of the kidney removal from the donor, there wasn’t any family involved to explain what actually happened. Both patients will be at the dialysis center for two or three hours a day with about 50 people being there for dialysis. There are also several dialysis machines running down the center of the building and television sets built into the walls. You may not hear the electronic apparatus to picture the four long hours sitting and hooked up to a large white wheel chair which in turn your blood flow being pumped out of you and back into your body. Paula and Debby were invited to help you serve your community.

Jensyn Warren captures first all-America Award

Sonoma State University sophomore Jensyn Warren has been selected to the 2017 Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) Division II Women’s Tennis All-American First Team for singles play, it was announced by the organization Thursday.

Warren becomes the third student-athlete in SSU women’s tennis history to capture an all-American honor. Warren, from Woodland Hills, Calif., ends the campaign ranked 19th in the nation in singles play in the latest ITA Division II Women’s Tennis Rankings. Warren, who won her 15th match of the season this past weekend, leads the nation in singles wins. Warren was 17-4 at the time of the previous record of 25 set by Sara Celma back in 2012. Warren is also sixth in the West Region in singles play; she went 13-4 in singles matches this past spring.

Tournament in April, ends the year ranked 19th in the national women’s singles rankings. As a team, the Seawolves, who ended 2016-17 with a 14-7 record and earned a berth in the ITA Oracle Cup in Arizona back in October. She was also an All-PacWest First Team selection five season ago. Also in the end-of-season rankings was junior Armenia Gendreau, who is ranked 16th in the West Region in doubles play. The pairing of Warren and senior Jordan Keene ranked sixth in the West Region in doubles play. They were 1-9 at the top of the league, winning one match this past season. Warren and Keene are first and second, respectively, in SSU women’s tennis history for the most career doubles records. Warren has 750 winning percentages (56-20) and Keene with a 540 winning percentage (50-20). As a team, the Seawolves, who ended 16-17 with a 24-7 record and earned a fifth-place finish in the Pac-West Championship Tournament in April, ended the year ranked 19th in the nation and seventh in the West Region.

Gifts for dad

One thing that resonates with dad is doing things with those short people who made him a dad in the first place. One excellent opportunity is to visit the Sturgeon Mill near Occidental. More than ten years ago a group of volunteers working with the Sturgeon family, many of whom still live on the mill property, started a restoration project. The sturgeon saw mill is under the shade of tall redwoods; the weekend is supposed to be very hot. Forged coat hook from the Blacksmith workshop. http://www.sturgeonsmill.com/v. 707-829-2479 home, the price is good, FREE! Dad and kids will go home with great memories and maybe a freshly forged coat hook from the Blacksmith workshop. http://www.sturgeonsmill.com/v. 707-829-2479

Father’s Day is coming this Sunday, June 18, 2017.

What is it?

Father’s Day is an annual celebration honoring the father of the family, or in some cultures, the ancestor or patriarch of the family. It is observed in many countries, most commonly in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Israel, and some countries in Europe.

Why do we celebrate Father’s Day?

Father’s Day was established in 1910 by Sonora Smart Dodd, an American activist. Dodd wanted to honor her father, a Civil War veteran who raised six children on his own. Dodd’s idea was to create a day for all fathers, similar to Mother’s Day, which had been established 16 years earlier. Father’s Day was first celebrated in Spokane, Washington, in 1910. In 1924, President Calvin Coolidge declared the third Sunday in June as Father’s Day. The day became a national observance in 1972.

How is Father’s Day celebrated?

Father’s Day is celebrated in different ways around the world. In the United States, many people send cards, give gifts, and organize special events to honor their fathers. In Israel, Father’s Day is called “Ilanot” (pine trees), and people often plant trees as a symbol of their fathers. In the United Kingdom, Father’s Day is celebrated with family meals, gifts, and cards. In many other countries, Father’s Day is celebrated with similar traditions. Whatever the customs, Father’s Day is a time to reflect on the role of fathers in our lives and to show appreciation for the love and guidance they provide.

Make sure to follow the directions for grilling the steak to get the best results. Enjoy your Father’s Day grilling experience with Chef Grant Hon’s tips.

Action

1. Proper preparation. Clean and heat your grill to high.
2. Prepare your steaks. Pat steaks dry and season before grilling. Use sea salt and freshly cracked pepper or a complete steak seasoning or rub.
3. Scoring. Score steaks over high heat and avoid moving them before they’re fully seared on all sides to protect flavor and juices.
4. Handling steaks on the grill. Use tongs or a spatula to turn most steaks; grilling with a fork can damage the meat.
5. Controlling your cook. Close grill cover as much as possible to maintain a temperature around 450°F.

BEEF ON STEAK SALT

Garnish steak with remaining jerky salt.

Heat gas or charcoal grill to 450°F and oil grates to prevent sticking.

Grill to desired doneness based on thickness of steak. Let steak rest 5 minutes.

Garnish steak with remaining jerky salt.

Sonoma County Fair honors Nancie Carlson

Nancie Carlson's story is a living example of how following your passion can lead to great things. She started life as a little girl who adored horses—not so uncommon—and grew that passion into an enduring success. Carlson was raised on a ranch in Nevada to gather and process cattle. Throughout her life, she's raised horses for breeding, showed them in competitions, and served as a mentor for others.

Carlson was influenced by her parents, who instilled in her a love for hard work and a strong work ethic. She began her horse-related career at a young age, working at shows and helping her parents run their ranch. Her dedication and commitment to the horse industry paid off, and she was recognized with the 2017 Award of Excellence in the Horse Industry by the Sonoma County Fair.

Carlson received the award and trophy, designed by Keith Christie and donated by the Petaluma Riding and Driving Club, the Western Cow Horse Association, and the Sonoma County Santa Rosa Saddlery. This led her to join a number of Ag programs and to become a leader among the horse community enjoyed in Sonoma County today. The Sonoma County Fair is pleased to present the 2017 Award of Excellence in the Horse Industry to Nancie Carlson.

Anna Perry

A nna Perry wrote the first novel about police detective Thomas Pitt in 1979. Why? Because she was fascinated by the upper class and the rich history of London. After chasing ghosts for many years, she has just become a member of this exclusive club.

She wrote her first novel when she was a young girl and has been writing ever since. Her stories are set in the upper classes of society and reflect her fascination with history and the people who inhabit it.

Perry continues to write about historical facts, and her novels are always based on real events. This has helped her to maintain a high level of accuracy throughout her career.

In this case, Queen Victoria was not a fan, but she married a man who was. The resulting children were successful, and the family continued to thrive. This is a story with historical facts, and a story with passion.

Perry has been a part of the British Crime Fiction scene for over 30 years, and her novels are beloved by readers around the world. She continues to write, and her latest book is available now.

The A, B, C, & D of Medicare

Breaking down the basics & what each part covers

Whether your 65th birthday is on the horizon or decades away, you should understand the parts of Medicare – what they cover, and where they come from.

Parts A & B: Original Medicare. America’s national health insurance program for seniors has two components. Part A is hospital insurance. It provides coverage for inpatient stays at medical facilities. It also helps cover the costs of hospice care, home health care, and nursing home care – but not for long and only under certain circumstances.

Seasons are frequently warmed that Medicare will only pay for 100 days in a row of nursing home care (provided certain conditions are met). Part A is the part that does so. Under current rules, you get 100 days of skilled nursing facility (SNF) care at no cost. The 100 days are limited to 60 days in a single SNF stay and a yearly deductible of $183. (Some people automatically receive Part A coverage.

Part B: Medical insurance and can help pick up some of the tab for physical therapy, physician services, expenses for durable medical equipment (wheelchairs, walkers), and other medical services such as lab tests and vaccines. It includes the same preventive services needed to keep you healthy.

The monthly premium is $137.00. You can choose to pay Part B premiums in addition to Medigap policy payments. But if you choose Part B, you must keep up your payment of Part B whether or not you sign up for Part C.

Part C: Medicare Advantage plans. Insurance companies offer Medicare-approved plans (called Medicare Advantage Plans). These plans cover the same benefits as Part A and Part B, but they may also offer extra benefits, such as the most common provider networks, premiums, copays, and out-of-pocket maximums. You still pay Part A and Part B deductibles, but with Part C, your benefits are extended.

Part D: Prescription drug coverage. Medicare does not cover prescription drugs, so Part D plans fill that gap. Prescription drug plans are marketed by private companies. Most people enroll in the drug plan(s) offered through their Medicare Advantage plan or else buy a stand-alone Medicare Part D drug plan. One Part D plan per state – usually, any such move is much Karl Weise, an LPL Financial Advisor, provided this article.

As you search for a plan at medicare.gov, you also enter your medications, and the website will estimated costs. You can even help you pay for medical care outside the United States. You have to pay Part B premiums in addition to Medigap policy payments. But if you choose Part B, you must keep up your payment of Part B whether or not you sign up for Part C.

Part C plans usually do offer prescription drug coverage, insurers also sell Part D plans as a bundle with a Medicare Advantage plan. But if you enroll in a Medicare Advantage plan that doesn’t include Part D, you can purchase a stand-alone Part D plan from any drug plan sponsor.

Part D prescription drug plans. While Part D plans generally offer prescription drug coverage, some do not. Many plan to enroll in a Medicare Advantage plan that includes Part D. Other plan resides in the U.S. You can compare the plans available in your area and choose the one that best fits your needs.

Is there anything more stressful than a sick fur-baby? They can be so vulnerable, and it feels like no amount of care or love is enough.

Our dear Blackberry recently got sick, and it was a wake-up call for us. We thought we were doing everything right — feeding her a balanced diet, giving her plenty of exercise, and making sure she was well taken care of. But despite our best efforts, she slipped through our fingers.

One day, she started vomiting and we rushed her to the vet. The vet diagnosed her with a gastrointestinal infection, which was a stark reminder of how delicate pets can be.

For the next two weeks, we monitored her closely and administered the necessary medication. We could see the improvement in her condition, but it was a rollercoaster ride of emotions. We were relieved when we finally saw her regain her appetite and start showing signs of recovery.

In the end, we learned the importance of early detection and prompt medical intervention. It's a reminder to always be vigilant and prepared for any sudden changes in a pet's health.

We quickly rallied and got her the care she needed. The support from our community was profound, with many reaching out to offer their help and kindness.

End of story. The lessons learned from this experience are invaluable and serve as a stark reminder that we should always be prepared for anything. Our pets are an essential part of our families, and their health and well-being should always be our top priority.

opened my eyes up culturally and internationally,” Gutierrez said towards the end of his presentation. “...stay in contact with them and it’s amazing to share my experiences with the people of Hashimoto… and up to this day I still keep in touch with the people that I met on my adventure and with the family that hosted him. Everyone is equal to each other, there is no separation of groups, like from cheerleaders or football players, everyone is together,” Gutierrez said. He said during his appearance at the meeting he was able to meet with the local high school and the city committee, as well as the mayor of Hashimoto, Hitoshi Tadano. After his presentation, Gutierrez talked about connecting and making friends with the people that he met on his adventure and with the family that hosted him. “It was a heartwarming experience… because I just grew a connection with the people of Hashimoto — and up to this day I still keep in touch with them and it’s amazing to share my experiences with the students over there. The Sister City Committee has really opened my eyes up culturally and internationally,” Gutierrez said towards the end of his presentation.

Despite being nervous leaving his home town and country behind, Gutierrez said that the trip was a “dream come true” and was thankful for the committee. “I’ve always dreamed of going to Japan ever since I was a little kid, so it was just a dream come true. I am really grateful to the Sister City Committee for making me,” he said.

When asked what is the most important aspect about having a Sister City for the city and being able to have an exchange program, Knappman said it is important for students to get a glimpse of “a different history, different race and different culture.” “We’re basically the same human beings and we have differences but at the same time we have similarities and we feel love and respect for each other. And there is also a different way of doing things, the Japanese way, or the American way,” Knappman said. “So I would like these young people to see; what you may know, may not be the only way, there is right or wrong. Knowing the alternatives and expanding the two you see things in things I would like them to have.”

I have had a wonderful experience and have met many terrific people, but I realize I need to move on. If you have time to stop by, I would love to have a chance to say goodbye.
