Robert Grant

By Irene Hilsendager

After the conclusion of the concert, Director Decker said, “In all of our countries around the world there have been conflicts at one time or another. It is very sad to think of all the casualties that were made during the war period. It was a very hard time of Japanese history. Over 200 years after our war period, it was in the midst of our civil war period in Japan which lasted about 30 years. It was a very hard time in Japanese history. Clearly, hard work, much training and detailed learning are as necessary for an equestrian as they are for athletes of all kinds of sports and competitions. The next time you see a young lady in the saddle, you now know that behind the veil of her smile there was much hard work and training.”

The “Disney” concert in the TAG building

By Jesse Hilbigander

The Rancho Cotate High School Music Department presented its first concert of the year in the newly remodeled TAG building. Director Tim Decker started the evening with a roaring rendition of “Tunnel of Trees” for a Robert Grant photo session. With the equestrian team present, the photo session featured Robert Grant with Bentley, a horse that has been with the team since its inception as well as a few girls from the city’s equestrian team. Bentley trotted, cantered, arched, stretched, and hipped (whatever that means) as Robert Grant took his position above our heads. With the public relations shots completed, the audience asked questions, which primarily revolved around the different disciplines of different horses. The purpose of the Rohnert Park Sister Cities Relations Committee is to foster international understanding and friendship through exchanges of people, artifacts, and ideas with cities of foreign countries, and to promote increased international peace in order to better understand each other’s customs. The City of Rohnert Park became Hashimoto’s sister city in 1983. Currently, the board members of the committee are Jane Peleti, Sachiko Knappman, Mia Stump, Gay Drudal and Cyril Tramel, who acts as Chairman of the group.

The City of Rohnert Park finds this right now and the mayor just informed me that we have some grants that we can apply for which would increase it from being performed one to maybe three times a year.”

Bailey So. Co. Woman of the Year

Rep. Mike Thompson (CA-05) announced Lorez Bailey as this year’s Woman of the Year in Sonoma County. Each year, Thompson honors women from the Fifth Congressional District who make exceptional contributions to our community. Women of the Year Awards, started in honor of Woman’s History Month, recognize strong and courageous women throughout the world. Thompson recognizes one woman from each of the counties in our districts who is to be recognized for her service to our community, and who has made a significant impact on the lives of others.

Home monitoring systems: Monitoring systems help family caregivers keep tabs on the health and safety of senior loved ones. With the latest technology, many monitoring systems are designed to be used with one hand, eliminating the need for human intervention. In the event of an emergency, the system will automatically alert family members and emergency services.

These devices automatically send an alarm, which can help older adults stay safe. The devices are designed to be worn on a lanyard, bracelet, or necklace. They are easy to use and can be worn at home or on the go.

The effects of aging can vary from person to person, and it's important to find the right products to help meet their needs. Whether it's monitoring systems, GPS trackers, or medical alert devices, there are many options available to help keep older adults safe and independent. It's important to do your research and choose the products that best meet the needs of the older adult in your life.
Sportsman’s Report: Nutria and hogs forest introduced species

By Bill Hanson

The news articles on the invasive species Nutria are hair-raising stories about how the rodent has taken root in the Bay Area and far beyond. The Nutria is native to South America and can be found in parts of the world throughout the world. The Nutria has become a problem in many areas, including the San Francisco Bay Area. The Nutria can cause significant damage to crops and property, and its presence can be a challenge for farmers and landowners.

Nutria are a large, semi-aquatic rodent that can grow up to 18 inches long and weigh up to 30 pounds. They are known for their strong front teeth, which they use to gnaw on roots and other vegetation. Nutria are found in wetlands, streams, and rivers, and they are known to cause significant damage to crops and property.

Nutria have been introduced to several areas in the United States, including California, where they are considered an invasive species. They have caused significant damage to crops and property, and they are a challenge for farmers and landowners.

The Nutria is a semi-aquatic rodent that is native to South America. It is also known as the cuniculus, and it is a member of the family Arvicolidae. The Nutria can grow up to 18 inches long and weigh up to 30 pounds. It is characterized by a short tail, a thick body, and a long nose.

The Nutria is a good swimmer and can travel long distances across water. It is also a good climber and can climb trees to escape from predators. The Nutria is a semi-aquatic rodent, and it spends most of its time in water, but it can also live on land.

“Barbeque Apocalypse”: Grilling, chilling and killing

By Janet and Leroy Lowery

Most post-apocalyptic stories serve up some kind of lessons about values and insight into humanity. Speckels’ “Barbeque Apocalypse” (see review on this page), 9th Street Playhouse in Cotati, May 10-26 will make you think about what kind of family you might have if you were involved with the fast food business.

Along with “Speckels’” “Barbeque Apocalypse” (see review on this page), 9th Street Playhouse in Cotati, May 10-26 will make you think about what kind of family you might have if you were involved with the fast food business.

“Barbeque Apocalypse” features a cast of characters that includes a daughter named Deb, who becomes enthralled with the idea of starting a new family after her husband and sons die in the apocalypse. Deb’s family is composed of Ash (Trevor Hoffman), Deb (Jess Headington), Lulu (Lyndsey Sivalingam) and Trek (Robert Grant).

In the first act of “Barbeque Apocalypse”, the characters are introduced as they work in a fast food restaurant. Deb is a devoted, loving wife who becomes involved with the son of the restaurant owner, Ash. Ash is a charismatic leader who quickly gains the respect of the other characters. Deb and Ash become a team, working together to survive in the post-apocalyptic world.

In the second act, the characters are forced to make difficult decisions about their future. They must decide whether to stay in the restaurant or to move on to a new location. Deb is torn between her loyalty to Ash and her love for her family. Ash is faced with the difficult decision of whether to continue to lead the group or to let Deb take over.

“Barbeque Apocalypse” is a thought-provoking play that explores the themes of family, leadership, and life in the post-apocalyptic world. It is a must-see for anyone interested in post-apocalyptic stories or for those who enjoy thought-provoking drama.

ABLE accounts are credited for employment income to their accounts in excess of $15,000 from a standard 529 plan into an ABLE account. Due to condition must be met with the beneficiary of the standard 529 plan must either be the same person as the beneficiary of the ABLE account or a member of the same family as a payee for the ABLE account.

ABLE accounts are becoming a commonly used special needs planning. An account containing $150,000 (or less) probably will not be an adequate to cover lifetime income needs for most adult disabled. Even if the ABLE account is used for education expenses of an ABLE account, it does not qualify for Federal income tax benefits. Most of the time is spent in the beginning years of the account, but sometimes it will be used as a "living trust" for the disabled person. Only one 529A account is allowed per disabled individual. Only one 529A account is allowed per disabled individual. Only one 529A account is allowed per disabled individual. Only one 529A account is allowed per disabled individual.
