School District – What now?

By Cassandra May Albaugh

Normally the last formal board meeting of the year is routine. One school year ends, the next one starts in the fall. Graduations are over, signs are removed, and the vacation is in order. But 2020 was unique, a year unlike any other. It was unprecedented, a year meant only in the history books. So what is left in the history books?

This meeting is also to discuss the proposal budget for the next school year. It was not the typical budget; it was not the one the people, the parents, the teachers, the board, and the superintendents knew. The budget was one that was not prorated, no cuts, no delays, just a budget that was made so the students could continue their education.

Even before COVID-19, the district was being fiscally challenged. As a result of state cuts and increases in enrollment, the district was being forced to make hard decisions. They were forced to make budget cuts and to freeze staff positions.

After a few more routine items, the uncertainty over school reopening was discussed. The board continued to discuss the options for reopening schools. They are considering three options: full reopening, distance learning, and a hybrid model.

The board must make a decision soon. The uncertainty in budget planning is a major concern. As data becomes available, projections will be made. The district is working with the state to ensure that the budget requirements are met. The district is working with the state to ensure that the budget requirements are met.

The board must consider the budget implications of each option. The district is working with the state to ensure that the budget requirements are met.

The Community Voice

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to a column written by Mr. X. I was not impressed with his comments about the recent events in our community. I found his perspective to be one-sided and insensitive to the pain and frustration felt by many people.

As a community member, I believe it is important to listen to and empathize with the experiences of others, especially those who have been marginalized or discriminated against. We must strive to understand and respect the perspectives of people from different backgrounds and cultures.

In this case, Mr. X's comments seemed to trivialize the severity of the issues faced by our community members. I encourage all of us to engage in constructive dialogue and to work towards creating a more inclusive and equitable society.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
Fourth of July festivities are right around the corner. We want to keep our community safe and remind everyone of our zero tolerance policy for illegal fireworks.

- Wear eye protection and use long matches when lighting fireworks.
- Store fireworks in a cool, dry place and not in a pocket.
- Keep a bucket of water, a water hose and/or a fire extinguisher within reach.
- Move animals inside and away from displays. Lights of fireworks often frighten animals.
- Be sure to attach hinges to the top of each wood step leading down to your yard.
- Have children use adult supervision or stand for at least five minutes, then immerse in water.

Police know they risk further protests if they don’t get their act together. They’ve already given the president a great deal of ammunition and they aspire to meet the demands of demonstrators.

As with past protests like the Boston Tea Party and the storming of the Bastille about 15 years later not concerning fireworks, purchase them from local non-commercial lot will result in a fine between $250.00 and $750.00.

Obeying local and state laws concerning fire works.

Olbury:

Smart things to do with furniture:

- Keep a heap of water, a water hose and/or a fire extinguisher near for emergencies. Always be prepared to respond to a neighborhood fire.
- Keep a bucket of water, a water hose and/or a fire extinguisher within reach.
- Be sure to attach hinges to the top of each wood step leading down to your yard.
- Have children use adult supervision or stand for at least five minutes, then immerse in water.

- Keep an ounce of patience is worth more than a ton of backing.
Curbside pickup at libraries expanding

Beginning Monday, June 29, the Sonoma County Library is expanding its curbside pickup to all branches. The service will be offered at all 12 library branches, Monday through Thursday, from 3 to 7 p.m., and Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

“Curbside pickup was developed as a safe and quick way for people to access materials during the pandemic,” said Director Ann Hammonds. “Our patrons have been patient while we were primarily a digital library, but we hope that many can now replace hold holds with curbside pickup.”

The Patróns card and other local stations will offer curbside services on their previous days-7/7 schedule. The Sonoma County History & Genealogy Library does not have curbside pickup services.

Curbside pickup will take place outside each library, with patrons able to request items such as books, DVDs, CDs and more, from curbside. No appointment is required.

“Hammocks are the command to be patient for a bit longer before returning books,” the logistics of returning items are explained, “but we hope to begin accepting in-house services soon,” she said.

People who are on the list to request a physical library card will receive a notification when curbside pickup is ready for them. For curbside pickup services, visit your local library and check with a library staff member.

Mon-Fri, 3pm-7pm Sat, 10am to 2pm:

The Community Voice has been providing the local news, sports, entertainment to our readers and marketing tools to local businesses at affordable prices. We have gone through many phases including twice a week, tabloid and more. We now have been a weekly newspaper for over 15 years taking pride in providing a crisp quality newspaper.

As a parent of athletes, you know firsthand, we have done our best to cover sports along with amazing photos. As parents and teachers of elementary school children, you would agree we have recognized all students and their achievements as they were made available to us.

Since 1993, as the owner and publisher of The Community Voice (a family-owned newspaper), we have made all efforts to have the communities of Rohnert Park, Cotati and Penngrove receive a FREE publication for their convenience if they choose not to subscribe. Other local papers have closed in Northern California over the past three months and the communities who have lost their newspaper are not seeing their local news and not having their voices heard.

We are doing well and with your support we will continue to do so.

With rising costs and a tumbling economy, we need to make adjustments to continue to provide local news, sports and much more.

Fire-smart and water-wise: Tips for a resilient landscape

Summer is upon us! If you’ve kept a garden or maintained a landscape here in Sonoma County, you know just how thirsty plants can get in this dry season. Luckily, many of the guiding principles for creating a water-wise garden are one of the chief strategies for reducing water use. Many folks are looking to reduce their water use, and are considering converting some of their lawns to other plant material to reduce the thirst of their lawn. While some may be skeptical about the beauty of these non-lawn plants, it is possible to have both a beautiful and water-wise landscape.

Perhaps the most important factor is maintenance. The most fire-smart landscape design is the one that requires the least water and maintenance. Yet, it is possible to have a beautiful water-wise landscape that requires minimal maintenance if you design it correctly. The key to creating a beautiful water-wise landscape is to understand the local climate and soil conditions and to choose plants that are adapted to those conditions. This can be done by selecting native plants, which are already adapted to the local climate and soil conditions, or by selecting plants that are tolerant of the local climate and soil conditions.

Another important factor is water conservation. This can be done by designing a landscape that captures and reuses water, such as by using rainwater harvesting systems or by designing a landscape that captures and reuses water from irrigation or precipitation. This can be done by selecting plants that are adapted to the local climate and soil conditions and to choosing irrigation systems that are efficient.

Finally, the most important factor in creating a beautiful water-wise landscape is to understand the local climate and soil conditions and to choose plants that are adapted to those conditions. This can be done by selecting native plants, which are already adapted to the local climate and soil conditions, or by selecting plants that are tolerant of the local climate and soil conditions.

I like to keep the idea of fire-smart landscaping a little bit more than others. These typically have waxy, oily or combustible leaves. Plants that don’t need excessive maintenance — after all, we want to enjoy our landscapes, not just work in them!

It is likewise important to remove dead plant material from your yard every time the weather changes. That’s when it is most likely to become flammable. It is also important to keep your yard free of dead plant material and leaves, which can be a potential fire hazard. The key to creating a beautiful water-wise landscape is to understand the local climate and soil conditions and to choose plants that are adapted to those conditions. This can be done by selecting native plants, which are already adapted to the local climate and soil conditions, or by selecting plants that are tolerant of the local climate and soil conditions.

I’ll just tell you that it’s a fun restaurant with a great, high-energy setting.

Parents, please continue to encourage your kids to color each week’s coloring pages and send them to us at info@thecommunityvoice.com, along with your child’s name and age so that we can give them credit for their artwork when it appears in an upcoming issue!
When it comes to purchasing a home, especially a first home, you need to consider your financial situation before you start looking. To make the best decision, you must establish your budget, take inventory of your finances, and set your priorities. You need to prioritize what is most important to you, whether it’s down payments, closing costs, or anything else. You need to ensure that you can afford the monthly mortgage payments, local property taxes, and homeowners insurance. You need to factor in their impact on your budget so you can be financially prepared for the future.

In addition to these factors, you need to consider the location of the property. You need to find a neighborhood that fits your lifestyle. You need to ensure that the neighborhood’s schools are good, and you have access to essential services such as parks, shopping centers, and public transportation.

Moreover, you need to consider the type of property you want. Do you want a single-family home, a condo, or a townhouse? Do you want a home with a backyard or a rooftop deck? You need to ensure that you have enough space for your family needs, and you will live comfortably in your new home.

Finally, you need to ensure that the property is in good condition and you need to get it inspected by a professional. You need to check the home’s foundation, roof, and wiring, and make sure that the property is free from any defects. You need to ensure that you buy a safe and secure property that will provide you and your family with a comfortable and healthy living environment.

In summary, when it comes to purchasing a home, you need to consider various factors, such as your budget, location, type of property, and property condition. By considering these factors, you can make an informed decision and find your dream home.

Summer is here, the primary indicator, watermelon, bright, green skies, and honeybees buzz around the potted flowers in our windows. It’s time for an outing, something one doesn’t have to plan in advance. Somewhere near our home, you should head out to shop and wait in line, grabbing as much sap as you can even at the risk of your life.

COTTONWOOD CREEK: Single family with modified adjusted gross income (MAGIs) of $95,000 or less and joint filers with MAGIs of $190,000 or less can pay up to $2,000 into these accounts annually, which typically offer more investment options than 529 plans. (Planmap.org above these MAGIs limits.) More savers need to be aware of options available for college and K-12 education expenses.

Those who are not fortunate enough to have had a good year may now be used to paying qualified K-12 tuition costs. Under tax reforms passed in 2017, up to $10,000 of 529 plan funds per beneficiary per year may be used to pay for qualified education expenses of the plan beneficiary or a qualified beneficiary’s family member. Contributions may be made until the account is distributed.

While many have seen the value of a life insurance policy, and some educational institutions, these plans may be advantageous if your student wants to go to college. You manage the trust as you see fit and it is owned by a trustee. The trust remains a separate entity from the donor, and you can use the trust to save for your child’s education.

When you buy a single home or condo?

The other factor you need to take into consideration is your income. Your income may impact the type of home you can afford. If your income is low, you may be limited to purchasing a smaller home or condo.

The location of the property is also a critical factor. You need to consider the location of the property in relation to your work, school, and other daily activities. You need to ensure that the property is in a safe and secure neighborhood and has good access to essential services.

You need to ensure that you have a comprehensive home inspection before you purchase the property. You need to check the property’s foundation, roof, and wiring, and make sure that the property is free from any defects.

Finally, you need to ensure that you have a good credit score. You need to ensure that you have a good credit score so you can qualify for a mortgage. You need to ensure that you have a good credit score so you can afford the monthly mortgage payments, local property taxes, and homeowners insurance.

In summary, when you buy a single home or condo, you need to consider various factors, such as your income, location, property condition, and credit score. By considering these factors, you can make an informed decision and find your dream home.
Finding time to do something for yourself can be challenging. It may seem like there is never enough time in the day to enjoy the good things in life. But if you’re not taking care of yourself, you can’t do your best work around the house. It’s time to take a break to focus on you. Reading, taking a hot bath, or just allowing yourself a bit of personal pampering can help. Capricorn.

Dear reader:
As we all know, Covid-19 has taken a toll on all small businesses and has given us a challenge and a very deep impact on our establishments.
Now the small business owners are looking toward the community leaders for help. Most businesses have had little or no revenue for the last 12 weeks and operational expenses are consuming three times the monthly rate without any revenue.
As Rohnert Park, Cotati and Penngrove's leading newspaper, we have approached the city leaders to partner with us to create a helping hand.
The City of Cotati did not hesitate and accepted our generous offer and the businesses listed below are the results of the partnership. These businesses will receive aid for a period of six weeks at no cost to them. Please support your local businesses.

Shop Local. Support your local businesses.

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL BUSINESSES

The City of Cotati is offering a wide range of services and resources to help local businesses get up and running safely, including:

Re-opening checklist
Are you wondering if you're complying with state and local health regulations? Before you open your business we suggest completing the checklist for reopening businesses at Bit.ly/reopening_cotati.

Business use of sidewalks and streets
Have you ever wanted to use the outdoor area in front of your business? Now you can! Go to tinyurl.com/sidewalkforbusinesses to find out how to take advantage of this great opportunity.

Other ideas or questions?
The city recently made significant changes to support new business concepts or ideas, in many cases making the process to start a new business or change existing business models easier and more straightforward. To discuss any of these elements, please contact Noah Housh, the Community Development Director at nhoush@cotati.org or by phone at (707) 665-3635 for assistance or questions. Reach out to us, we’re here to help!
